SPANISH FLIERS MYSTIFY TWO CONTINENTS

WHEREABOUTS OF FRANCO ARE STILL UNKNOWN

UNCONFIRMED REPORT THAT
PLANE HAD LANDED AT
HORTA

IN AZORES THEY INTEND TO RE-
FUEL FOR LONG JOURNEY
TO NEW YORK

(By United Press)

The exact whereabouts of the four Spanish fliers, led by Commander Ramon Franco, in the tri-motored hydroplane, Dornier 16, today, provided a mystery which intrigued two continents.

While crowds in Spain and in Portugal cheered themselves hoarse over unconfirmed reports that the fliers had landed safely in the Azores, the authorities at Horta, chief port of the Azores group, had had no sign of the fliers nor word of their presence in the scattered group of islands. Rumors were rife in Madrid and in Lisbon, due to the lack of confirmation and the lack of details in the unconfirmed reports of the fliers' landing.

There were reports that the fliers had been forced down at Funchal, one of Madeira Islands, but a short distance west of the Moroccan coast and considerably south of the fliers contemplated route to the Azores.

The Portuguese government at Lisbon was informed by wireless from the Portuguese cruiser Vasco-gama that the fliers had landed safely at the Azores this morning and would continue their flight to America by way of Halifax, Nova Scotia, tomorrow. But the place of their landing or any other details were not given.

Similar reports reaching Madrid caused rejoicing throughout Spain as the radio carried the unconfirmed messages. These reports likewise contained no details as to time or place of landing.

Up to 5 P. M., the aeronautics department of the Spanish war office in Madrid had been unable to get confirmation of the reports and expressed frank bewilderment.

From Horta in the Azores, where radio operators had been up all night and at their sets throughout the day seeking through the ether to establish contact with the fliers, there was no word of them up to mid-afternoon. Motor boats and air field officials were still in readiness to aid the fliers if necessary at landing.

Horta, Azores, June 22.—Commander Ramon Franco and his three flight companions aboard the Spanish trans-Atlantic hydroplane Dornier No. 16 were several hours overdue here today enroute from Spain to the United States.

In spite of the fact that the plane was late in arriving here, where they intended to refuel for the long journey to New York, no anxiety was felt for their safety.

At 12:30 P. M. there was no sign of the Spanish fliers here nor any word of their presence in the Azores.

Madrid, June 22.—Unconfirmed wireless reports received from Horta, Azores Islands, stated unofficially that Commander Ramon Franco and his three companions aboard the hydroplane Dornier No. 16 arrived in the Azores at 8 A. M. today 6 A. M. (EST). The reports did not note the place of landing or the source of the purported information.

The public accepted the report with jubilation. Crowds about the newspaper bulletin boards cheered the report which was spread quickly throughout Spain by radio. Official centers were enthusiastic in their praise of the Spanish fliers for having accomplished the first leg of their flight and voiced confidence that the same success would mark the entire venture.

The aeronautics department of the war office had received no confirmation of the report of Franco's arrival at the Azores up to 5 P. M.

Lisbon, Portugal, June 22.—A bulletin to the newspaper Seculo stated that the Portuguese cruiser Vaso Da Gama intercepted a radio dispatch saying that the Spanish hydroplane of Commander Ramon Franco had landed at Horta. However, the Radio Marine Service at Mont Santo did not confirm this. Seculo received a Horta dispatch dated at 1:15 P. M., saying the Spanish hydroplane was expected to arrive momentarily, but that its position was not known.

'SOME KNEES ARE BETTER LOOKING THAN OTHERS,' SAYS ARTIST

London, June 22.—(U.P.)—Some knees are better looking than others, but all are worth while displaying, according to Senor Federico Baltrannasses, a Spanish painter who is giving an exhibition of his work here.

"I am absolutely against the movement which seems to be gaining ground to make Englishwomen refrain from exhibiting their legs," the artist said. "I think they should show their knees. There is no reason for hiding them."

"The American girls also can show their knees with impunity. They are descended from the English and inherit their beauty."

WILD VISION OF WISCONSIN AS A WET OASIS—MIRAGE

OPINION ADVANCED BY SENATOR
HOWARD TEASDALE,
SPARTA, WIS.

LATTER IS VETERAN REFORM
LEADER OF WISCONSIN
STATE SENATE

By WILLARD R. SMITH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Madison, Wis., June 22.—Vision of Wisconsin as a wet oasis in a dry United States is a mirage, in the opinion of Sen. Howard Teasdale, Sparta, veteran reform leader of the state senate.

Sen. Bernhard Gittleman's plan to create a state medical liquor commission to sell intoxicants to any citizen on affidavit that they will be used only for medical purposes make Teasdale chuckle.

The dry leader is willing to concede that some way may have been found at last to dispense liquor without violating federal restrictions, but he isn't worried about its being put into effect in Wisconsin yet.

First, the state constitution must be amended to allow the state to enter his medicinal liquor business, he cited. That would require a favorable vote at this session, another in 1931, and then ratification by vote of the people at some subsequent election.

"Three of four years is a long time to wait for a prescription. Even a dry knows that," Teasdale said.

Teasdale laughs at Gittleman's wet proposals, such as putting the state in the liquor business. He cited a U. S. supreme court decision to support his contention that it could not be done legally.

Even if it could be, and here he chuckled again, federal agents could make the rounds following the state's delivery wagon and arrest every citizen who bought state-made liquor on a charge of illegal possession under the Volstead act.

"Maybe there is something to his argument about liquor for medicinal purposes," Teasdale admitted, "but I don't believe we'll ever see the plan in operation here."

TO VACCINATE ALL SUMMER STUDENTS AT CHAMPAIGN

Champaign, Ill., June 22.—Vaccination of all University of Illinois summer students was ordered by health authorities today after discovery that A. C. Bock, of Montevideo, Minn., a summer student, had contracted smallpox.

Only students vaccinated in the last five years were exempt from the order.

Bock attended classes for two days before it was discovered that he had smallpox.

Dr. J. Howard Beard, university health officer, said the situation was not alarming.

Commander MacMillan Sets Sail on His 12th Expedition Into the Far North, Arctic Region

SCHOONER BOWDOIN LEAVES THE PORT OF WISCASSET, MAINE

SEVERAL MONTHS TO BE SPENT IN EXPLORATION OF
BAFFIN LAND

MATERIAL CARRIED FOR EREC-
TION OF FIRST SCHOOL HOUSE
FOR ESKIMOS

Wiscasset, Me., June 22.—(U.P.)—Carrying Commander Donald B. Macmillan on his 12th expedition into the far north, the trim little Arctic schooner Bowdoin sailed from this river port today for several months' exploration of virtually unknown parts of Baffin Land.

Accompanying the Bowdoin as she cruised down Sheepscot river, ocean-bound, was the Mission schooner Maraval, in charge of Sir Wilfred T. Grenfell and carrying among her crew two sons of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Townfolk gathered along the river front to wish the explorers and Mission workers bon voyage, and the sailing of the two craft was marked by all the color and enthusiasm of Macmillan's many previous departures for the northland.

An important part of Bowdoin's cargo consisted of materials for the erection of the first schoolhouse for Eskimo children in Labrador. The school will be built at an Eskimo settlement of about 200 and for a quarter of a century the headquarters of the Moravian missionaries.

Macmillan explained that there were some schools open to white children in Labrador but none to accommodate young Eskimos.

Macmillan planned to follow his usual custom and spend the first night of his northward voyage at Christmas Cove. He expects to reach Labrador in about two weeks.

Besides Macmillan, eight persons sailed aboard the Bowdoin. There are 12 aboard the Maraval.

NEWTON ARRIVES AT BEDSIDE OF HIS INJURED SON

Minneapolis, June 22.—(U.P.)—Rep. Walter H. Newton, now administrative secretary to Pres. Hoover, arrived this morning at the bedside of his 9-year-old son, John, who had his right leg crushed Thursday evening under a street car.

Rep. Newton rushed to Eitel hospital where he found his son "neither better nor worse," according to the attending physicians.

It may be two or three days, the congressman was informed, before the effects of the shock of the injury will have worn off sufficiently to warrant an operation to amputate the injured limb above the knee.

SNOOK ARRAIGNED ON MURDER CHARGE

CONFESSION SLAYER UNDECIDED
AS TO WHAT TO PLEAD IN CASE

Columbus, O., June 22.—(U.P.)—With his arraignment on a first degree murder charge set for 9 a. m. Monday, Dr. James H. Snook, confessed slayer of Theora Hix, Ohio State university co-ed, was undecided today whether he will carry out his plan to plead guilty.

Should the former professor of veterinary medicine plead guilty and throw himself upon the mercy of the court, the court would reserve the right to impose the death penalty or life imprisonment. Snook has not been advised of this.

The bespectacled professor's attorney, John F. Seidel, said he would not permit his client to plead guilty "if it can be avoided." He said he wants the case to go to trial; that he "is not yet satisfied that Snook killed the girl."

Miss Hix's body was found on the New York Central rifle range here eight days ago. Snook, who occupied a "love nest" with her, was arrested. He confessed Thursday and was indicted yesterday. Snook is married and the father of a child.

AIR MAIL SERVICE ESTABLISHED BETWEEN U. S. AND CANADA

Washington, June 22.—(U.P.)—Establishment of an international air mail service between the United States and Canada on July 15, was announced today by Assistant Postmaster General Glover.

Planes will be placed into operation on that date between Montreal, Canada, and Detroit, Mich., Glover said. The new service will make connections with the transcontinental service in the United States.

CAPONE'S ATTORNEYS IN MYSTERY MOVES

Philadelphia, June 22.—(U.P.)—Attorneys for Alphonse (Scarface) Capone moved mysteriously today.

Rep. Benjamin M. Golder, latest addition to the staff of Capone attorneys, said efforts to free his client had been renewed while Bernard L. Lemisch, who represented the Chicago gangster during his trial here, said "we are considering no action at this time."

BRAINERD BANDS WERE POPULAR IN GIGANTIC PARADE

FACED THE WELCOME OF 60,000
CHEERING MILL CITY
SPECTATORS

OF INTEREST IN ST. PAUL

St. Paul, June 22.—(U.P.)—Their hopes high for taking home a state championship, 1,000 musicians from nearly every section of Minnesota arose early today to brush imaginary specks from spotless uniforms and polish the bends of already glistening instruments.

For today, after facing the welcome of 60,000 cheering Twin Citizens, the 26 bands entered in the State Music Festival here were to meet in the city auditorium to compete for prizes and trophies.

Perhaps two of the most popular units with the thousands of spectators in a gigantic parade through the downtown district Friday night were the St. Cloud Boys' and the Brainerd Ladies' bands. The St. Cloud organization of 96 boys in bright blue uniforms and the Brainerd women in scarlet and white satin were given the honor places in the line of march.

The Sleepy Eye high school band, marching in perfect unison to the muffled beat of a drum, was awarded first place in the marching contest with the St. Paul Police Band second.

Howard W. Files of the Pillsbury Band of Minneapolis was selected the "snappiest" drum major and 25 St. Paul boys and girls playing "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" on harmonicas won first place in the novel band contest.

Pederson's Concert Band, which traveled 412 miles here from Hallock, Minn., won the first prize awarded to the organization coming the longest distance to enter the festival.

Another popular band was the Crosby Ore Diggers, a 40-piece group covered from head to foot with yellow slickers and hats to match in place of their old uniform of red shirts and black miners' caps topped with tiny lamps.

In the reviewing stand were Governor Theodore Christianson, Mayor L. C. Hodgson of St. Paul, Colonel Walter C. Sweeney, commandant of Fort Snelling, and Colonel Frederick Stutze, commandant of the 26th Infantry of the Minnesota national guard.

Judges appointed for the concert today were Austin A. Harding and Karl L. King, nationally known band masters. In turn they led the massed band of 1,000 pieces at a concert in a downtown park.

Following the contest today the bands will give concerts in St. Paul churches and parks Sunday and leave for their homes later in the day.

ANOTHER OIL MAN, SINCLAIR ASSOCIATE, COMMITTED TO JAIL

Washington, June 22.—(U.P.)—Chief Justice McCoy of the district supreme court today signed papers committing Henry Mason Day, associate of Harry F. Sinclair, oil baron, to jail for four months as a result of the Sinclair jury-shadowing case.

Day, it was learned, will appear at the district jail Monday to begin his sentence.

Sinclair, now serving a three months sentence for contempt of the senate Teapot Dome investigating committee, received a six months jail term in connection with the case.

WHITE'S FRIENDS SEEK HIS RELEASE ON BAIL TODAY

DISTRICT JUDGE GRAHAM M.
TORRANCE ASKED TO FIX BONDS

FRANZ JEVNE, ATTORNEY, SAYS
AMOUNT SHOULD BE REASONABLE

By HECTOR FERRIER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

International Falls, Minn., June 22.—(U.P.)—Friends of Emmett J. White, youthful border patrolman held in jail here on charges of second degree murder in the shooting of Henry Virkula, today took first definite steps toward securing his release on bail.

Franz Jevne, International Falls attorney, and Walter Nelson, customs agent and a friend of White, motored to Bemidji to ask District Court Judge Graham M. Torrance to fix bonds. If the judge acts favorably on the application, Nelson hoped to secure bondsmen here and bring about White's immediate release.

Jevne said the law requires that the bail be reasonable and he would argue that under the circumstances $5,000 would be a fair amount.

International Falls, Minn., June 22.—(U.P.)—It now is history that the citizens of International Falls and its city council called upon President Hoover and Minnesota's representatives in congress for protection from what they termed the "arrogant lawlessness" of the border patrol.

Resolutions were sent to Washington demanding that agents be disarmed of sawed-off shot guns, with one of which Customs Agent Emmett J. White killed Henry Virkula, B. G. Falls confectioner, as Virkula and his family drove along the International highway, 27 miles south of the Canadian border.

The treasury department ordered agents to restrict use of firearms to pistols. President Hoover expressed regret over Virkula's death and declared to International Falls' city council that I might rest assured "there is no intention on the part of the federal government in any way to transgress the limits of the law." The president said the matter of White's conduct had been referred to the treasury department.

A mass of letters with vitriolic contradictory opinion on the shooting pour in daily to the central figures in the case—Virkula's widow and two young daughters, Agent White, Sheriff Hugh Reidy and County Attorney David Hurlburt.

One letter to Hurlburt, from a church in Little Hurlburt, near where Virkula was shot on the night of June 8, said:

"We know Virkula was a rum runner and that he stopped here to unload his liquor that night because he knew agents were watching him."

Another from a man in Baltimore said Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, was "a scamp for defending this sort of thing."

Californian wrote White that he would like "to come up there and cut your throat."

A citizen of Chicago inquired of Sheriff Reidy if it was safe for him to bring his family here on a vacation, declaring: "It wouldn't be so bad if I got shot up, but my wife is deathly afraid of guns."

International Falls itself, while still resentful over Virkula's death, apparently is determined to place it in the courts.

Leading citizens generally agreed with President Hoover that the fed-

WORKING AGREEMENT AFFECT-
ED BY GOVERNMENT AND VATICAN

LEAVES MEXICAN RELIGIOUS
LAWS IN FULL FORCE AND EFFECT

By GESFORD F. FINE
Mexico City, June 22.—The long standing religious strife between the Mexican government and the Catholic church has been settled.

Religious services with priests in charge will resume in Mexican Catholic churches not later than June 29.

The working agreement reached between the Mexican government and the Catholic church leaves the Mexican religious laws, to which the Catholics had objected, in force. The agreement allows interpretation of the most contested points in such a manner as to remove friction between the government and the church authorities.

The interpretation made by President Emilio Portes Gil in his statement announcing the agreement yesterday includes three principal points:

That the government can require the registration of those priests only who have been duly named by the hierarchical superior of the religious creed in question.

That religious ministers of any religion may teach their doctrines to Mexican adults and children within the confines of their churches when attendance is specifically for that purpose.

That all citizens have the right to petition the repeal, amendment or passage of any law, and that therefore the members of any church may apply to the proper authorities for such action.

The first interpretation was designed to remove Catholic objections to the requirement in the religious laws that all priests must register with the government before they can hold services in their churches.

The second interpretation was to eliminate differences resulting from the law prohibiting priests from giving religious instruction in public or private primary or secondary schools.

The third interpretation was more general in nature and designed to assure the people that they had protection against unwanted laws.

While not the final settlement hoped for between the church and the state, the agreement announced by President Portes Gil and Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz Y Flores was regarded by both as definitely ending the discord that has existed since 1926, when the religious laws went into effect.

The president in his statement, however, described the agreement as "a basis for settlement." Further negotiations will be carried on. It was understood, to smooth out the slightest differences.

In announcing the agreement, Portes Gil said Archbishop Ruiz Y Flores and Bishop Pasqual Diaz, who assisted in the negotiations, assured him the Catholic clergy in Mexico was patriotic and wished to resume public worship if they could do so consistently with their loyalty towards the republic and their consciences.

"They stated that could be done if the church could enjoy freedom within the law to live and exercise its spiritual offices," Portes Gil said. The archbishop's statement, also announcing the agreement, referred to the "Spirit of mutual goodwill" observed in the negotiations with the president, and hoped that the same spirit would be manifested by the people.

A few hours after the two statements were issued, the Mexican interior department announced that all Catholic prisoners in Mexico City jails would be released.

The agreement was announced after two weeks of conferences between the president and the papal emissaries following the churchmen's arrival from the United States, where they had gone when the religious laws were made effective three years ago.

eral government had no intentions of overstepping the state laws.

Mayor Oscar Sanstrom asserted he was sure "the government never has wilfully transgressed the law. The federal police have been, with rare exceptions, good fellows quick to cooperate with us.

Merle Clarke, national boys' runner-up in the flag essay contest of the United States Flag Association, who will be one of the four to take a trip around the world was greeted by Mayor Crisp (left) and other prominent citizens on his return home to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

SPANISH FLIERS MYSTIFY TWO CONTINENTS

WHEREABOUTS OF FRANCO ARE STILL UNKNOWN

UNCONFIRMED REPORT THAT
PLANE HAD LANDED AT
HORTA

IN AZORES THEY INTEND TO RE-
FUEL FOR LONG JOURNEY
TO NEW YORK
(By United Press)

The exact whereabouts of the four Spanish fliers, led by Commander Ramon Franco, in the tri-motored hydroplane, Dornier 16, today, provided a mystery which intrigued two continents.

While crowds in Spain and in Portugal cheered themselves hoarse over unconfirmed reports that the fliers had landed safely in the Azores, the authorities at Horta, chief port of the Azores group, had had no sign of the fliers nor word of their presence in the scattered group of islands. Rumors were rife in Madrid and in Lisbon, due to the lack of confirmation and the lack of details in the unconfirmed reports of the fliers' landing.

There were reports that the fliers had been forced down at Funchal, one of Madeira Islands, but a short distance west of the Moroccan coast and considerably south of the fliers contemplated route to the Azores.

The Portuguese government at Lisbon was informed by wireless from the Portuguese cruiser Vasco-gama that the fliers had landed safely at the Azores this morning and would continue their flight to America by way of Halifax, Nova Scotia, tomorrow. But the place of their landing or any other details were not given.

Similar reports reaching Madrid caused rejoicing throughout Spain as the radio carried the unconfirmed messages. These reports likewise contained no details as to time or place of landing.

Up to 5 P. M., the aeronautics department of the Spanish war office in Madrid had been unable to get confirmation of the reports and expressed frank bewilderment.

From Horta in the Azores, where radio operators had been up all night and at their sets throughout the day seeking through the ether to establish contact with the fliers, there was no word of them up to mid-afternoon. Motor boats and air field officials were still in readiness to aid the fliers if necessary at landing.

Horta, Azores, June 22.—Commander Ramon Franco and his three flight companions aboard the Spanish trans-Atlantic hydroplane Dornier No. 16 were several hours overdue here today enroute from Spain to the United States.

In spite of the fact that the plane was late in arriving here, where they intended to refuel for the long journey to New York, no anxiety was felt for their safety.

At 12:30 P. M. there was no sign of the Spanish fliers here nor any word of their presence in the Azores.

Madrid, June 22.—Unconfirmed wireless reports received from Horta, Azores Islands, stated unofficially that Commander Ramon Franco and his three companions aboard the hydroplane Dornier No. 16 arrived in the Azores at 8 A. M. today 6 A. M. EST). The reports did not note the place of landing or the source of the purported information.

The public accepted the report with jubilation. Crowds about the newspaper bulletin boards cheered the report which was spread quickly throughout Spain by radio. Official centers were enthusiastic in their praise of the Spanish fliers for having accomplished the first leg of their flight and voiced confidence that the same success would mark the entire venture.

The aeronautics department of the war office had received no confirmation of the report of Franco's arrival at the Azores up to 5 P. M.

Lisbon, Portugal, June 22.—A bulletin to the newspaper Seculo stated that the Portuguese cruiser Vaso Da Gama intercepted a radio dispatch saying that the Spanish hydroplane of Commander Ramon Franco had landed at Horta. However, the Radio Marine Service at Mont Santo did not confirm this. Seculo received a Horta dispatch dated at 1:15 P. M., saying the Spanish hydroplane was expected to arrive momentarily, but that its position was not known.

'SOME KNEES ARE BETTER LOOKING THAN OTHERS,' SAYS ARTIST

London, June 22.—(U.P.)—Some knees are better looking than others, but all are worth while displaying, according to Senor Federico Balrammases, a Spanish painter who is giving an exhibition of his work here.

"The American girls also can show their knees with impunity. They are descended from the English and inherit their beauty."

WILD VISION OF WISCONSIN AS A WET OASIS—MIRAGE

OPINION ADVANCED BY SENATOR
HOWARD TEASDALE,
SPARTA, WIS.

LEADER OF WISCONSIN
STATE SENATE

By WILLARD R. SMITH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Madison, Wis., June 22.—Vision of Wisconsin as a wet oasis in a dry United States is a mirage, in the opinion of Sen. Howard Teasdale, Sparta, a veteran reform leader of the state senate.

Sen. Bernhard Gettleman's plan to create a state medical liquor commission to sell intoxicants to any citizen on affidavit that they will use only for medical purposes make Teasdale chuckle.

The dry leader is willing to concede that some way may have been found at last to dispense liquor without violating federal restrictions, but he isn't worried about its being put into effect in Wisconsin yet.

First, the state constitution must be amended to allow the state to enter his medicinal liquor business, he cited. That would require a favorable vote at this session, another in 1931, and then ratification by vote of the people at some subsequent election.

"Three of four years is a long time to wait for a prescription. Even a dry knows that," Teasdale said.

Teasdale laughs at Gettleman's wet proposals, such as putting the state in the liquor business. He cited a U. S. supreme court decision to support his contention that it could not be done legally.

Even if it could be, and here he chuckled again, federal agents could make the rounds following the state's delivery wagon and arrest every citizen who bought state-made liquor on a charge of illegal possession under the Volstead act.

"Maybe there is something to his argument about liquor for medicinal purposes," Teasdale admitted, "but I don't believe we'll ever see the plan in operation here."

Wiscasset, Me., June 22.—(U.P.)—Carrying Commander Donald B. Macmillan on his 12th expedition into the far north, the trim little Arctic schooner Bowdoin sailed from this river port today for several months' exploration of virtually unknown parts of Baffin Land.

Accompanying the Bowdoin as she cruised down Sheepscot river, ocean-bound, was the Mission schooner Maraval, in charge of Sir Wilfred T. Grenfell and carrying among her crew two sons of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Townfolk gathered along the river front to wish the explorers and Mission workers bon voyage, and the sailing of the two craft was marked by all the color and enthusiasm of Macmillan's many previous departures for the northland.

An important part of Bowdoin's cargo consisted of materials for the erection of the first schoolhouse for Eskimo children in Labrador. The school will be built at an Eskimo settlement of about 200 and for a quarter of a century the headquarters of the Moravian missionaries.

Macmillan explained that there were some schools open to white children in Labrador but none to accommodate young Eskimos.

Macmillan planned to follow his usual custom and spend the first night of his northward voyage at Christmas Cove. He expects to reach Labrador in about two weeks.

Besides Macmillan, eight persons sailed aboard the Bowdoin. There are 12 aboard the Maraval.

International Falls, Minn., June 22.—(U.P.)—Friends of Emmett J. White, youthful border patrolman held in jail here on charges of second degree murder in the shooting of Henry Virkula, today took first definite steps toward securing his release on bail.

Franz Jeune, International Falls attorney, and Walter Nelson, customs agent and a friend of White, motored to Bemidji to ask District Court Judge Graham M. Torrance to fix bonds. If the judge acts favorably on the application, Nelson hoped to secure bondsmen here and bring about White's immediate release.

Jeune said the law requires that the bail be reasonable and he would argue that under the circumstances $5,000 would be a fair amount.

International Falls, Minn., June 22.—(U.P.)—It now is history that the citizens of International Falls and its city council called upon President Hoover and Minnesota's representatives in congress for protection from what they termed the "arrogant lawlessness" of the border patrol.

Resolutions were sent to Washington demanding that agents be disarmed of sawed-off shot guns, with one of which Customs Agent Emmett J. White killed Henry Virkula, Big Falls confectioner, as Virkula and his family drove along the International highway, 27 miles south of the Canadian border.

The treasury department ordered agents to restrict use of firearms to pistols. President Hoover expressed regret over Virkula's death and declared to International Falls' city council that I might rest assured "there is no intention on the part of the federal government in any way to transgress the limits of the law." The president said the matter of White's conduct had been referred to the treasury department.

A mass of letters with vitriolic contradictory opinion on the shooting pair in daily to the central figures in the case—Virkula's widow and two young daughters, Agent White, Sheriff Hugh Reidy and County Attorney David Hurlburt.

One letter to Hurlburt, from a church in Little Forks, near where Virkula was shot on the night of June 8, said:

"We know Virkula was a rum runner and that he stopped here to unload his liquor that night because he knew agents were watching him."

Another from a man in Baltimore said Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, was "a scamp for defending this sort of thing."

Californian wrote White that he would like "to come up there and cut your throat."

A citizen of Chicago inquired of Sheriff Reidy if it was safe for him to bring his family here on a vacation, declaring: "It wouldn't be so bad if I got shot up, but my wife is deathly afraid of guns."

International Falls itself, while still resentful over Virkula's death, apparently is determined to place it in the courts.

Leading citizens generally agreed with President Hoover that the fed-

WORKING AGREEMENT AFFECT-
ED BY GOVERNMENT AND VATICAN

LEAVES MEXICAN RELIGIOUS
LAWS IN FULL FORCE AND EFFECT

By GESFORD F. FINE
Mexico City, June 22.—The long standing religious strife between the Mexican government and the Catholic church has been settled.

Religious services with priests in charge will resume in Mexican Catholic churches not later than June 29. The working agreement reached between the Mexican government and the Catholic church leaves the Mexican religious laws, to which the Catholics had objected, in force. The agreement allows interpretation of the most contested points in such a manner as to remove friction between the government and the church authorities.

The interpretation made by President Emilio Portes Gil in his statement announcing the agreement yesterday includes three principal points:

That the government can require the registration of those priests only who have been duly named by the hierarchical superior of the religious creed in question.

That religious ministers of any religion may teach their doctrines to Mexican adults and children within the confines of their churches when attendance is specifically for that purpose.

That all citizens have the right to petition the repeal, amendment or passage of any law, and that therefore the members of any church may apply to the proper authorities for such action.

The first interpretation was designed to remove Catholic objections to the requirement in the religious laws that all priests, must register with the government before they can hold services in their churches.

The second interpretation was to eliminate differences resulting from the law prohibiting priests from giving religious instruction in public or private primary or secondary schools.

The third interpretation was more general in nature and designed to assure the people that they had protection against unwanted laws.

While not the final settlement hoped for between the church and the state, the agreement announced by President Portes Gil and Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz Y Flores was regarded by both as definitely ending the discord that has existed since 1926, when the religious laws went into effect.

The president in his statement, however, described the agreement as "a basis for settlement." Further negotiations will be carried on, it was understood, to smooth out the slightest differences.

In announcing the agreement, Portes Gil said Archbishop Ruiz Y Flores and Bishop Pasqual Diaz, who assisted in the negotiations, assured him the Catholic clergy in Mexico was patriotic and wished to resume public worship if they could do so consistently with their loyalty towards the republic and their consciences.

"They stated that could be done if the church could enjoy freedom within the law to live and exercise its spiritual offices," Portes Gil said.

The archbishop's statement, also announcing the agreement, referred to the "Spirit of mutual goodwill" observed in the negotiations with the president, and hoped that the same spirit would be manifested by the people.

A few hours after the two statements were issued, the Mexican interior department announced that all Catholic prisoners in Mexico City jails would be released.

The agreement was announced after two weeks of conferences between the president and the papal emissaries following the churchmen's arrival from the United States, where they had gone when the religious laws were made effective three years ago.

eral government had no intentions of overstepping the state laws.

Mayor Oscar Sanstrom asserted he was sure "the government never has wilfully transgressed the law. The federal police have been, with rare exceptions, good fellows quick to cooperate with us."

MAKES MASTERLY REPAIR OF PLANE

LIEUT. CARL A. DIXON PATCHES LANDING GEAR WHILE IN FLIGHT

Hartford, Conn., June 22.—(UP)—Lieutenant Carl A. Dixon, Hartford aviator, nonchalantly went about making repairs on his five-passenger airplane today while fliers hailed him for one of the most remarkable exhibitions of coolness and skill in aviation annals.

Discovering his landing gear was disabled while flying over Willimantic, Dixon turned over the controls of the ship to a mechanic, cut a hole in the bottom of the fuselage and repaired the landing gear with rope and a shoe string while hanging by his feet.

Then he brought the plane and its three passengers down to a 25-mile-an-hour landing.

Dixon took off from Brainerd field for Willimantic with three passengers. As he came swooping down for a landing at the Willimantic field observers noticed the right V-strut of the landing gear had become detached from the fuselage and was hanging limply.

Death injury to the four passengers would almost certainly have resulted, had the plane been landed in that condition.

Dixon, when he saw his plight, told David Weingart, his mechanic, to take the controls and began to work.

Dixon stripped to the waist. Then, patiently, he began work on the hanging strut while the passengers prayed for his success.

After two hours, he drew himself up into the plane with a sigh of relief, took the controls and brought the plane down to a masterful landing that did not jar the crippled landing gear.

Symbols of the Taoist

Upon many Chinese panels are depicted the leading Taoist symbols. A crane soaring over a pine tree is emblematic of endurance and longevity. A deer indicates dignity and wealth, while the unicorn Ki-pin is the emblem of perfection that appears only at the birth of a virtuous ruler.

Tire "Picked Up" Nugget

Charles C. Crite, a California farmer, was driving along a stretch of gravel road when one of his tires blew out. On removing the tire Crites discovered the cause of the puncture to be a gold nugget. He sold the nugget to a jeweler and received enough to buy an inner tube.

Enamel Substitute

As a substitute for Japanese enamel in decorating boxes and other things, a gelatinous substance produced by some of the larger varieties of snails is now used. It resists age and gives a brilliant surface when hard. Only experts can tell it from the more costly oriental substance.

Luck Plays a Part

Isaac Newton, the great scientist, owed his greatness, in part, to luck, writes Frank Thayer in Thrift Magazine. The chance visit of an uncle was the incident that started young Newton to the university where he perfected himself in mathematical science.

VITAPHONE TALKING PICTURES AT PEOPLES THEATER IN CROSBY

The first Vitaphone talking picture in Crosby can be seen and heard at Peoples theatre Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday when they will present Dolores Costello in "The Glad Rag Doll."
The Vitaphone equipment has been installed and first tests made yesterday proved very satisfactory. Two new Simplex projection machines besides the Vitaphone equipment, were purchased by the theatre management to give the best results in the showing of Vitaphone pictures.

Miss Costello's role in "The Glad Rag Doll" is that of Annabel Lea, a Broadway musical comedy actress, who has become engaged to Jimmy Fairchild, younger son of a proud and wealthy family which objects to an actress for his wife. When John Fairchild, the elder brother, gets Annabel discharged from the show in which she is appearing when she refuses to give Jimmy up, she arms herself with Jimmy's burning love letters and goes to the family home in Philadelphia. As she threatens to give the love letters to a newspaper if the family continues objecting to her, John reluctantly invites her to spend the week end, hoping to gain possession of the letters.

Annabel discovers a number of ugly family skeletons, so she is confident that she can make the family eat out of her hand, but all of her plans are upset when she falls in love with John, and he with her. Comedy and dramatic situations develop rapidly thereafter, and the happy ending that all comedies should have is achieved at the very end.

VITAPHONE TALKING PICTURES AT PEOPLES THEATER IN CROSBY

The first Vitaphone talking picture in Crosby can be seen and heard at Peoples theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday when they will present Dolores Costello in "The Glad Rag Doll."

The Vitaphone equipment has been installed and first tests made yesterday proved very satisfactory. Two new Simplex projection machines besides the Vitaphone equipment, were purchased by the theatre management to give the best results in the showing of Vitaphone pictures.
Miss Costello's role in "The Glad Rag Doll" is that of Annabel Lea, a Broadway musical comedy actress, who has become engaged to Jimmy Fairchild, younger son of a proud and wealthy family which objects to an actress for his wife. When John Fairchild, the elder brother, gets Annabel discharged from the show in which she is appearing when she refuses to give Jimmy up, she arms herself with Jimmy's burning love letters and goes to the family home in Philadelphia. As she threatens to give the love letters to a newspaper if the family continues objecting to her, John reluctantly invites her to spend the week end, hoping to gain possession of the letters.

Annabel discovers a number of ugly family skeletons, so she is confident that she can make the family eat out of her hand, but all of her plans are upset when she falls in love with John, and he with her. Comedy and dramatic situations develop rapidly thereafter, and the happy ending that all comedies should have is achieved at the very end.

PASS THE DOG ORDINANCE

ALDERMAN W. J. HALL should be given generous support in his effort to have the council pass an ordinance to prohibit the running at large of dogs during the summer season.

Nothing adds so much to the appearance of a city as beautiful flower gardens and nicely trimmed lawns adorned by beautiful shrubs and flowers. This city has advanced wonderfully in this respect, and citizens should be encouraged in so doing, instead of being disheartened by dogs chasing through their flower beds and destroying their efforts at beautifying their homes.

Dogs are man's best friend in the animal kingdom, and a fine dog gives great pleasure to its owner and family, but it is not unfair or unreasonable to ask him to maintain his dog in such a manner as not to damage other citizens or their property, and thus prevent the beautifying of the city. Only selfishness on the part of a dog owner would want him to have his dog run at large and damage other people.

Let the ordinance be passed.

LITTERING STREETS WITH PAPER

ANY windy day or the day after, it is a revelation to the clean housewife or man of the house to walk along Front street and see the mass of waste paper lodged about the curbs for blocks in length.

There would be no paper for the wind to blow about if people were not careless in their disposal of such matter, if the authorities prohibited the distribution of circulars about our streets and if people would exercise more care in the burning or other disposal of such waste.

As one alderman very concisely and clearly put it at the council meeting, it is foolish to permit distribution of circulars and then pay a man in city employ to clean up such flying paper.

Nothing so much impresses a tourist or other visitor as a clean, tidy city. Paper littering curbs and alleys and area ways, basements and other receptacles, is no asset to any town. It bespeaks a slovenly attitude. It should be remedied and Brainerd retained in the column of spotless towns.

GIVES ENTERTAINING LECTURE

THE DISPATCH will shortly publish the address which Mrs. J. A. Thabes gave before the June meeting of the St. Cloud Twentieth Century club this week on "Minnesota's Birds and Their Nestlings."

In reviewing her address, Mrs. Maude C. Schilplin of the St. Cloud Daily Times termed Mrs. Thabes a noted naturalist of Minnesota. Bird lore and conservation have particularly appealed to Mrs. Thabes who is a lover of the great out-of-doors and very observant and sympathetic. Her bent of mind was recognized by the State Federation of Women's clubs who named her Sixth District Chairman of Conservation.

Mrs. Thabes is not only a student and lover of birds, but is also interested in wild flowers and other phases of nature. She is a recognized authority on the subject. At the Thabes lake home on Gull lake she has recorded many observations and embodied them in her lecture.

THE TRUCKS DID IT

In these army maneuvers one force may be declared victor over the other and the casualties are but few. The Third Infantry southern force defeated the northern army this week in a memorable engagement "fought" between Milaca and Onamia. One army mule died on the forced march and one soldier was sun-struck.

Like Foch who commandeered the taxicabs at the gates of Paris, so the southern commander turned the scales and won the bridgehead below Onamia by commandeering the trucks of a road construction crew and strategically placing his men above and below the bridgehead and so completely bottling up and isolating the bridgehead opposing detachment.

Nothing like having a few taxicabs and gravel trucks around to change the fortunes of war. Napoleon depended on mobile artillery, but motor vehicles and light infantry have their honored places in warfare too.

HE COULD NOT SWIM

THE saddest thing in connection with drownings is to read that the victim could not swim.

In these days when it is so easy to acquire the technique of swimming, when the local Red Cross annually engages an expert to give instruction, when learning to swim means but a few lessons well mastered, it is a crime on the part of parents that their offspring are not taught the rudiments of being at home in the water so as to save themselves in accidents or to save others.

BRINGING town and countryside together, the First Presbyterian church of Brainerd has inaugurated a series of community services at the church which are being well attended. People of Long Lake, Oak Lawn and other communities near Brainerd are worshipping on stated Sundays with the town people at the local church.

TOM MIX, carrying around a bag containing $75,000 cash and securities, should have a large safety deposit box to hold his hoardings. A lot of us, we are sure, would never carry that much money around in such a fashion.

NEW conditions bring new charges in the courts. Just the other day one Davis McDonald Wallace was nabbed by state highway patrolmen in New Jersey for landing in a farmer's wheat field and he was charged with operating an airplane while intoxicated.

THE Steffens couple have aired their differences in the divorce court. Both are writers and she even used her marital troubles as foundation for a magazine article.

CRASHES and deaths at a motor car racing bowl only seem to stimulate the public to greater attendance.

Fix Up that CELLAR ENTRANCE

The entrance to the cellar is likely to be neglected. Ricketty stairway, down which a careless step will send you hurtling—cracked walls, and unsightly trash. True pride in the home will not permit these "ugly spots" to remain, even though they may be hidden from sight. EVERY part of the house should be in ship-shape order.

Live life to the full

This is the most amazing century in the history of the world. Within the brief span of twenty-five years man has learned to fly, to talk across space, to see through living bodies. No one knows what miracles the next quarter of a century will produce.

But it is not in these more spectacular inventions alone that human progress has leaped ahead.

Since the dawn of civilization women have aged faster than men. The deadly monotonous routine and drudgery of housekeeping has borne them down.

But modern science has taken away the chief causes of drudgery. Through advertising, women by the millions have found a way to have water, light, heat, cold . . . at the touch of a finger. No woman of even the most modest means need be a drudge today if she reads advertising.

It is advertising that has stimulated an overwhelming demand for these newer, better things of life. And this demand has made possible tremendous new industries furnishing well-paid work for millions of men. An endless circle that has made the average American family today the healthiest, happiest and most prosperous in all the world.

Read advertising. Don't miss the new things—live life to the full.

Fix Up that CELLAR ENTRANCE

The entrance to the cellar is likely to be neglected. Ricketty stairway, down which a careless step will send you hurtling—cracked walls, and unsightly trash. Live life to the full

This is the most amazing century in the history of the world. Within the brief span of twenty-five years man has learned to fly, to talk across space, to see through living bodies. No one knows what miracles the next quarter of a century will produce.

But it is not in these more spectacular inventions alone that human progress has leaped ahead.

Since the dawn of civilization women have aged faster than men. The deadly monotonous routine and drudgery of housekeeping has borne them down.

But modern science has taken away the chief causes of drudgery. Through advertising, women by the millions have found a way to have water, light, heat, cold . . . at the touch of a finger. No woman of even the most modest means need be a drudge today if she reads advertising.

It is advertising that has stimulated an overwhelming demand for these newer, better things of life. And this demand has made possible tremendous new industries furnishing well-paid work for millions of men. An endless circle that has made the average American family today the healthiest, happiest and most prosperous in all the world.

Read advertising. Don't miss the new things—live life to the full.

NINE COLLEGE RACING CREWS GET READY FOR MONDAY

TEDIOUS WORK OF CONDITIONING IS NOW ENDED

ONE OF THEM TO EMERGE WITH INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIP

SOME TO TAKE TO WATER AT POUGHKEEPSIE TODAY FOR SHORT PULLS

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 22.—The tedious work of conditioning is ended and nine college crews were ready today for the annual varsity regatta Monday from which one of them will emerge with the intercollegiate championship.

Most of the nine crews planned to take water today for short pulls and possibly to practice a few racing starts but the hard work was ended and the oarsmen awaited the gun that will send them swinging down the four-mile Hudson course.

Should either Columbia or California, the outstanding and logical favorites, triumph there will be little argument as to national supremacy among the shells.

However, as the time for the annual regatta nears it becomes more and more evident that the race for national honors will be a keen one with at least two, and probably four or more shells in the running to the last few dozen yards.

There seems to be no question as to the right of Columbia and California to the positions they hold as favorites but there are few who are ready to count such crews as Washington, Cornell and the Navy completely out of the running.

Washington has a 50-50 record for the year having lost to California on the coast and won from Wisconsin at Madison. Cornell is undefeated in the east with the exception of a narrow victory scored by Yale.

Navy has lost to Columbia, M. I. T. and Pennsylvania of the nine crews quartered here but there seems to be little comparison between the Navy eight of the early season and Coach "Pop" Glendon's powerful, smooth-swinging crew of today.

None of the other shells look bad although they seem to be out of the running for first place.

Philadelphia, June 22.—(UP)—Melvin Ott of the New York Giants knocked his 18th home run of the season in the first inning of today's double-header with the Phillies and his 19th in the fifth inning. Jackson of the Giants knocked his 14th homer in the fifth inning.

Ott, by getting his two blows, tied with Gehrig of the New York Yankees for home run supremacy in the big leagues.

The Navy football team will play in Penn's big Franklin field stadium, Philadelphia, twice this fall. They will meet Penn October 27 and Princeton November 24.

MAX SCHMELING DOES LIGHT WORK TO KEEP IN SHAPE

Lakewood, N. J., June 22.—(UP)—Only a little light work is necessary to see Max Schmeling in trim for his bout with Paulino Uzcudun at New York next Thursday, his trainers said today. The German resumed work after a trip to Atlantic City yesterday.

Max Bishop Anxious to Be Great Lead-Off Man

Max Bishop, regular second baseman for the Philadelphia Athletics, says his ambition is to become the greatest lead-off man in the game.
"I want to set an all-time record for passes to first," he remarked. "Last year I batted .316 and did a lot of free swinging, which shows I didn't wait out the pitchers as much as in former years."
Rival players have often said that the Mack infielder's eyesight is uncanny and umpires usually agree with him when he falls to swing.

ANOTHER TWIN

BILL FOR DELIGHT OF EXCITED FANS

HONORS EVEN THUS FAR IN CRITICAL MID-SEASON SERIES

BOTH ARE RIVALS FOR THE AMERICAN LEAGUE FLAG

By FRANK GETTY

Yankee Stadium, New York, June 22.—Philadelphia's heavy artillery was too much for the Yankees in the first game of their double-header today. Connie Mack's men taking the contest, 7 to 3, with the aid of home runs by Fox and Cochrane and excellent pitching by Walberg.

The best Babe Ruth could do was a double. More than 50,000 saw the game.
The defeat left the Yankees 8½ full games behind the league leading Athletics. Even if the Yankees won today's second game and the contest tomorrow they could do no better than end the series 6½ full games behind.

Helmach was knocked out of the box in the fifth inning. Sherid who relieved him, pitched airtight ball. Byrd and Larry hit homers for New York in the ninth.

New York, June 22.—(UP)—Having packed about all the drama one afternoon of baseball could reasonably encompass into their opening double header, the New York Yankees and the Philadelphia Athletics resume hostilities in another twin bill today.

Honors have been even thus far in this critical mid-season series between the rivals for the American league flag. "Lefty" Grove and Waite Hoyt divided the laurels for their efforts on the mound in the first and second games respectively. Al Simmons and the once more mighty Babe Ruth shared the glory of individual prowess at bat; each team won a well deserved victory, the Mackmen taking the opener, 11 to 1, the Yanks the second game, 8 to 3.

Yesterday's record breaking throng—the greatest week day crowd that ever saw a mid-season ball game in this or any other city—numbered 66,145, but today's turnout of fans threatened to exceed that figure.

One thing must be said for the Athletics as the series continues: they have given the lie to the belief that they hadn't the heart to fight the world's champions in a pinch. They proved that they are not out in front of the parade by seven and one-half games by any fluke.

Arrangements were completed for Paulino to fly from his training camp here to New York for the fight. He will make the trip in a hand plane instead of going to Albany and boarding the pontoon-equipped New York-Albany plane there.

Yesterday's Hero—Babe Ruth, whose home runs in the seventh and eighth inning of the second New York-Philadelphia game at New York gave the Yankees an even break in the first two games of the series. The Athletics won the first, 11 to 1, but the Yanks took the second, 8 to 3.

Washington rallied in the eighth with three runs to win from Boston, 5 to 4, at Washington. It was a tough game for Ruffing to lose as he allowed the Senators only five hits.

The Chicago Cubs dropped to second place in the National league and were replaced at the top by the Pittsburgh Pirates who beat the Cubs, at Chicago, 14 to 3. The Pirates scored four runs in the first, seventh and ninth innings and two in the eighth.

Brooklyn finally turned the tables on Boston after three straight defeats, winning a 15-inning battle, 7 to 3.

New York made it four straight at Philadelphia with an 11 to 5 decision over the Phils.

No other games were scheduled in either league.

LOCALS IN SECOND PLACE WITH FOUR WINS AND TWO LOSSES; WALKER TOPS HEAP

The Brainerd Northern Pacific team meets Pine River at Rosko's field Sunday afternoon in the last game of the first half of the Northwoods Association Baseball League.

The railroad team is in second place with four wins and two losses with Walker on the top of the heap with six wins and no defeats. The second half of the schedule will find the Brainerd team making an even stronger bid for first place than in the first half.

Confident after their victory over Crosby last Sunday the Pine River team will be hard to beat. Brainerd will put on the field the following players: Hanson, Peterson, Jarboe, Loom, Fogelstrom and Richmond in the infield with Ringer, Nutting and Uddenberg in the outfield. The reserve strength will be composed of Engbretson, Erickson, Anderson, Fitzharris, Hautala and Swanson.

The Rejuvenated Uhle

Western Rivals Tune Up for Big Regatta

Out of the great west come two strong eight to the regatta at Poughkeepsie, both of which are granted an outside chance of winning against such crews as Columbia and California. Wisconsin, top, has some real huskies who will give a good account of themselves. Their captain, Warren Drouet, top inset, is full of confidence in his crew's ability. The

By QUIN HALL

WHEN it comes to doing a good job of ball twirling it is necessary to toss a few roses in the direction of George Uhle, the big side-armed, who is wearing a uniform other than Cleveland's for the first time in his major league career.

When he was traded to the Detroit Tigers, George made a trip to the Speed City to assure Manager Harris that he was glad he had been traded, that his arm was in great shape, and that he would have a great season in 1929. A lot of players predict a sunshiny future for themselves and then fail to make good. Uhle doesn't belong to that tribe.

Uhle always had the reputation of being about the classiest hurler in the American circuit when he was right. The trouble has been that George wasn't always right. But this Spring the big fellow started to win ball games as soon as the teams took the first barrier. In other words, he got away to a flying start and, while he is a veteran, he may prove one of the best bettors in the junior circuit this Summer. Last year he had a bad season, winning twelve and losing seventeen; but during the Winter he had his arm treated and it seems to have responded nobly. George is one right-handed flinger who has little fear of Babe Ruth even in the pinches. And Ruth knows that Uhle is one twirler who isn't afraid to put them across the platter when the Bam is up there at the plate. The statisticians will tell you that Uhle has caused the Babe to swing wildly for whiffs on many occasions. The way this rejuvenated star is going this year, the records of the meetings between the pair will probably be much more in favor of Uhle than even in the past.

With the arrival of the really hot weather, the big fellow may weaken to some extent. However, the switch from Cleveland to Detroit seems to have put new life in Uhle and Bucky Harris won't complain even if Uhle does lose a few before the season ends. Copyright 1929, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

MILWAUKEE BREWERS

CLUB MANAGER HAS RESIGNED

Milwaukee, June 22.—(U.P.)—Jack Lelivelt, manager of the Milwaukee Brewers club in the American Association, resigned last night and Marty Berghammer, manager of the Tulsa team of the western league, was named as his successor.

Announcement of Lelivelt's resignation was made by Louis Nahin, vice president of the club after a conference. Lelivelt refused to comment on the resignation or his future plans but Nahin said the resignation was caused by Lelivelt's poor health.

Lelivelt has been with the Brewers since 1926.

UZCUDUN IS GETTING NEAR FINE EDGE FOR BOUT

Hoosick Falls, June 22.—(U.P.)—Paulino Uzcudun resumed training today for his bout with Max Schmeling at New York next Thursday, after a day spent at Williams college yesterday. The Spaniard is not expected to work hard as he is near the edge and his trainers are fearful of his going stale.

Arrangements were completed for Paulino to fly from his training camp here to New York for the fight. He will make the trip in a land plane instead of going to Albany and boarding the post-coach-equipped New York-Albany plane there.

Yesterday's Hero—Babe Ruth, whose home runs in the seventh and eighth inning of the second New York-Philadelphia game at New York gave the Yankees an even break in the first two games of the series. The Athletics won the first, 11 to 1, but the Yanks took the second, 8 to 3.

Washington rallied in the eighth with three runs to win from Boston, 5 to 4, at Washington. It was a tough game for Ruffing to lose as he allowed the Senators only five hits.

The Chicago Cubs dropped to second place in the National league and were replaced at the top by the Pittsburgh Pirates who beat the Cubs, at Chicago, 14 to 3. The Pirates scored four runs in the first, seventh and ninth innings and two in the eighth.

Brooklyn finally turned the tables on Boston after three straight defeats, winning a 15-inning battle, 7 to 3.

New York made it four straight at Philadelphia with an 11 to 5 decision over the Phils.

No other games were scheduled in either league.

The Rejuvenated Uhle

STARTING THIS YEAR WITH TH' DETROIT TIGERS TH' BIG RIGHT HANDER RUNG UP A STRING OF STRAIGHT VICTORIES THAT MADE TH' CLEVELAND INDIANS SORRY THEY EVER LET HIM LOOSE—© 1929, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.

By QUIN HALL
WHEN it comes to doing a good job of ball twirling it is necessary to toss a few roses in the direction of George Uhle, the big side-armed, who is wearing a uniform other than Cleveland's for the first time in his major league career.
When he was traded to the Detroit Tigers, George made a trip to the Speed City to assure Manager Harris that he was glad he had been traded, that his arm was in great shape, and that he would have a great season in 1929. A lot of players predict a sunshiny future for themselves and then fail to make good. Uhle doesn't belong to that tribe.

Uhle always had the reputation of being about the classiest hurler in the American circuit when he was right. The trouble has been that George wasn't always right. But this Spring the big fellow started to win ball games as soon as the teams took the first barrier. In other words, he got away to a flying start and, while he is a veteran, he may prove one of the best bets in the junior circuit this Summer. Last year he had a bad season, winning twelve and losing seventeen; but during the Winter he had his arm treated and it seems to have responded nobly.
George is one right-handed flinger who has little fear of Babe Ruth even in the pinches. And Ruth knows that Uhle is one twirler who isn't afraid to put them across the platter when the Bam is up there at the plate. The statisticians will tell you that Uhle has caused the Babe to swing wildly for whiffs on many occasions. The way this rejuvenated star is going this year, the records of the meetings between the pair will probably be much more in favor of Uhle than even in the past.
With the arrival of the really hot weather, the big fellow may weaken to some extent. However, the switch from Cleveland to Detroit seems to have put new life in Uhle and Bucky Harris won't complain even if Uhle does lose a few before the season ends.

LEE SCHOENHAIR LEFT WEST COAST FOR NEW YORK EARLY THIS MORNING

EXPECTS TO ARRIVE AT METROPOLIS 9 P. M. AND REQUESTS FLOODLIGHTS AT FIELD

Los Angeles, June 22.—(UP)—Lee Schoenhair left here at 3:41 a. m. today in his airplane "Silvertown" in an attempt to fly to New York and back in 48 hours.

He carried 485 gallons of fuel. Schoenhair intended to start last night, but his plane was damaged when attendants at Metropolitan field taxied it into another craft.

Schoenhair left here confident that he could break the present west-east hop record of 18 hours, 30 minutes and 51 seconds, held by Captain Frank Hawkes. Schoenhair plans to remain in New York only long enough to refuel and check his ship after which he intends to head directly west again in an attempt to reduce the New York to Los Angeles time mark.

If his schedule is successful he will be in Los Angeles in time for dinner Sunday night.

By taking off this morning, Schoenhair eliminated any chance of a race with Capt. Hawkes, who will leave here Monday morning on the identical trip and with the identical objects in mind.

Weather conditions were reported excellent for Schoenhair's attempt. He will follow the great circle line and intends to drop messages to Goodrich officials in St. Louis, Cincinnati and Harrisburg.

His plane, a Lockheed Vega, propelled by a "Wasp" motor is capable of making 185 miles an hour.

Roosevelt Field, L. I., June 22.—Preparations were being made here today to receive Lee Schoenhair of Los Angeles, at the end of an attempt to set a record for a non-stop flight from Los Angeles to New York.

A telegram was received from Schoenhair saying he expected to arrive about 9 P. M., and requesting that floodlights on the field be turned on.

The present record is 18 hours and 22 minutes. To break it, he will have to reach Roosevelt field before 1:52 A. M. Sunday.

Dangerous Cargo

Rice has to be elaborately stowed on shipboard, pierced by trunkways, raised from the hold bottom on dunnage wood, and under all circumstances kept water-tight, even though the ship is awash with heavy seas on every deck. What is going to happen to 5,000 tons of rice in a closed compartment once it gets wet is fairly obvious!

The Daily Newspaper Continues As Best Advertising Medium

Despite the development of radio and other media of advertising the newspaper continues to offer the best form of advertising for products of the radio industry, William C. Grunow, vice president of the Grigsby-Grunow Company, Chicago, told delegates attending the Radio Manufacturers Association Convention at the Stevens Hotel, Chicago.

"In placing the Majestic Radio on the market our organization utilized every recognized form of advertising and today we are convinced that we owe to newspapers the tremendous success with which our product has met," said Mr. Grunow. "Not only have newspapers occupied a position of economic necessity in carrying the constantly changing message of good radio to millions of readers but their use as an advertising medium by the Grigsby-Grunow Company has so materially aided in establishing a constantly increasing demand for our product as to enable us and others to make better radio receiving sets at prices which three years ago would have been scorned by the industry."

"All of the other forms of advertising which we used were predicated upon newspaper campaigns. It was absolutely necessary that the daily press be utilized in order to make effective such other sales media which we used."

"We estimate fully 75% of the million users of Majestic Radio sets today first were reached and sold on the merits of our product through the extended newspaper campaigns which we have used and which we shall continue to use."

Mr. Grunow outlined the following reasons for the efficacy of newspaper advertising:

1. Newspaper advertising reaches effectively and at the lowest net cost the greatest number of people who can purchase our product.
2. "Newspapers with their great influence not only cover our markets geographically, city and country, but also reach every class of buyer from those possessing the lowest to those having the greatest buying power.
3. "Our experience has proved conclusively that newspapers are more responsible for the sale of value merchandise than all other types of media which are used to supplement newspaper campaigns.
4. "Newspapers are semi-public utilities. They are close to their communities and their columns are invaluable to manufacturers with products every family should know and own.
5. "Newspaper advertising is constant. Because of the regularity with which it reaches a given number of people every day its value in sales promotion can be checked definitely and dealer co-operation in relation to advertising likewise can be set down in dollars and cents."

In conclusion Mr. Grunow urged members of the radio industry to continue to utilize on even a greater scale newspaper advertising campaigns in merchandising their products.

All Sorts of Sandwiches

THE fun of a picnic starts with the making of the sandwiches if you go about it right. Don't retire to your kitchen and do all the work yourself, but invite your guests in and let them have a foretaste of the good things they are going to get to eat by letting them help make the sandwiches. If you're going far put your fillings in glass fruit jars so that the sandwiches won't get soggy and limp before you arrive. If your picnic grounds are nearby, put the sandwiches together right in the kitchen, and wrap them in oil paper to keep them fresh.

A Few New Kinds

They say that a new sort of sandwich is invented at every picnic. Here are a few recent inventions which were all eaten up when they were made:

Peanut Butter and Pineapple Sandwiches: Cream one-half cup of peanut butter, one-half cup of drained crushed pineapple, two tablespoons of chopped maraschino cherries, one tablespoon of cherry juice and one tablespoon of pineapple syrup together, and spread between thin slices of buttered white bread with a leaf of lettuce in each.

Cheese and Fruit Sandwiches: Mash two cream cheeses, add one-fourth cup of crushed drained pineapple and one-fourth cup of strawberry preserves, and cream well. Use between thin slices of buttered bread.

Pineapple and Marshmallow Sandwiches: Melt twelve marshmallows in a double boiler, add one-fourth cup of drained crushed pineapple and cook ten minutes. Cool and spread between buttered rounds of brown bread.

BRAINERD LADIES BAND PLACES IN STATE MEET

Wins Second Place in Class C This Morning at Minnesota Band Festival, St. Paul

AWARDED SILVER TROPHY

Thousands of People Cheer Ladies and Ore Diggers in Parade and Contest

The Brainerd Ladies' Band won second place in Class C at the Minnesota Band Contest conducted at St. Paul this morning, according to word received here at noon.

With the award goes a beautiful silver trophy.

Two Brainerd bands, the Brainerd Ladies' Band and the Brainerd-Crosby Ore Diggers, held the admiration of scores of thousands of people yesterday and today at Minnesota's first annual band festival conducted at St. Paul.

Last evening they were cheered by 60,000 people as they marched in line with 24 other bands of Minnesota through the St. Paul loop. Such notables as Governor Theodore Christianson, Mayor L. C. Hodgson, Colonel Walter C. Sweeney, commandant at Fort Snelling, and Col. Frederick G. Stutz of St. Paul, commander of the 206th Infantry, Minnesota national guard, were interested spectators from the reviewing stand.

The Brainerd Ladies' Band and the Brainerd-Crosby Ore Diggers were given extensive mention in Twin City newspapers, particularly the St. Paul Pioneer Press-Dispatch, which with the Minnesota Band Masters Association, are sponsors of the music festival.

The Press announced that "men could blow no sweeter notes than the lassies of the Brainerd Ladies' Band" and published on the front page lead-off position a large photograph of the band marching.

Yesterday at 1:45 until 2:15 p. m. the Brainerd Ladies' Band played a program of music over KSTP to which practically all Brainerd listened in on.

The Brainerd Ladies' Band, under direction of Winifred Cronk Ziebell, was the only band composed entirely of women in the parade.

The Brainerd women were costumed in scarlet and white uniforms, the most brilliant in the line, the Pioneer Press said, as it quoted Mayor Hodgson as saying that the drum major, Mrs. Dixie Thompson, "strutted high, wide and handsome."

So complete was the costume of Mrs. Thompson that even the Press was deceived. The paper referred to the drum major as a "comely young man in an all scarlet costume and patent leather boots."

Most of Brainerd listened in as Rev. W. C. Sainsbury broadcast a graphic description of the parade, and heard the local bands playing as they marched. The Ore Diggers also played one selection before the massed band concert at Rice Park at the end of the parade. The greatest aggregation of musicians ever gathered at one place in the state of Minnesota, numbering approximately 1,000, then played three selections as one band under one director, the musicians being arranged as to instrumentation. The three selections rendered were: "Stars and Stripes Forever," "Minnesota March" and "Star Spangled Banner."

"Perhaps the most unique band was surprisingly overlooked by the judges," says the Press today. "It is the Brainerd-Crosby Ore Diggers Band, an organization of 40 men. They sprang a complete surprise in the matter of uniforms. Ordinarily they wear red shirts and black miners' caps surmounted by little lamps on parade. When they turned west into Fifth Street from St. Peter Street the judges looked thrice before they identified the oncoming bandmen. The musicians wore long yellow slickers with a hat to match. The uniform captured the crowd's fancy and it gave the Ore Diggers a big hand."

In "Band Festival Flares," side-lights on the bands, the Press includes the following paragraphs concerning the Brainerd bands:

"William Knappe, director of the Diggers, who won first in the Christmas pageant here last winter, played solo B-flat cornet with the Fifteenth Infantry Band at Fort Sheridan in 1894."

"A polite crowd are the girls of the Brainerd Ladies' Band. When the Crosby Ore Diggers swept past them on the street Friday playing a march the girls took off their caps and held them high in salute. It turned out that they were saluting their home town boys for ten or twelve Brainerd men play with the Diggers."

"There's a question in the mind of Andy Anderson of the Crosby Ore Diggers as to whether St. Paul policemen appreciate music. Andy led the yellow-slickered musicians into the city hall Friday night waving his shovel baton bent on giving the police force a treat."

"What in heck is all that noise," roared Captain of Detectives Herman Vall, trying to raise his voice above the musical blasts.

"You're arrested," he told Anderson, for disturbing the peace and quiet of a police station, playing band music in a city hall and keeping the officers away from their pin-cle game."

"Anderson was placed on probation and released."

Tonight is the last night to see the Royal American Shows which have been showing all week at the Ilse Field on Mill avenue.

All the rides and all the shows will be going this evening. Many who have already visited the carnival will be there tonight to take advantage of the last chance to ride the Whip, the Dragon, the Ferris wheel, etc. All the young folks will want to go for another Buggy Ride, a trip through the barn, and into Laughland. All the children will want to be out for a ride on the merry go-round, the Merry Mix Up etc.

The American Legion is very fortunate in securing this class of entertainment for Brainerd, and the management of the Royal American Shows is to be complimented on the type of entertainment provided during the week.

This afternoon a special matinee was held for the children. A large number were at the field to take it all in.

HENRY FORD GETS ANOTHER 'FIND' FOR HIS MUSEUM

Parispany, N. J., June 22.—(U.P.)—Henry Ford got another "find" for his antique and historic collection today.

The little frame shed where his friend Thomas A. Edison invented the incandescent lamp 50 years ago was presented to him ceremoniously to take back to Dearborn where this fall, as part of the electric golden jubilee, Edison will repeat the experiment by which he achieved the lamp.

At today's ceremony at Mazdabrook, the General Electric Co. educational center here, the deed to the lamp birthplace and the rusty key to the building were presented to Ford.

Ford, recalling a flashlight powder explosion in New York yesterday asked photographers cautiously if they had any loose powder as they started to make pictures of him.

Edison gave the key, and chatted with Ford.

BRAINERD LADIES BAND PLACES IN STATE MEET

Wins Second Place in Class C This Morning at Minnesota Band Festival, St. Paul

AWARDED SILVER TROPHY

Thousands of People Cheer Ladies and Ore Diggers in Parade and Contest

The Brainerd Ladies' Band won second place in Class C at the Minnesota Band Contest conducted at St. Paul this morning, according to word received here at noon.

With the award goes a beautiful silver trophy.

Two Brainerd bands, the Brainerd Ladies' Band and the Brainerd-Crosby Ore Diggers, held the admiration of scores of thousands of people yesterday and today at Minnesota's first annual band festival conducted at St. Paul.

Last evening they were cheered by 60,000 people as they marched in line with 24 other bands of Minnesota through the St. Paul loop. Such notables as Governor Theodore Christianson, Mayor L. C. Hodgson, Colonel Walter C. Sweeney, commandant at Fort Snelling, and Col. Frederick G. Stutz of St. Paul, commander of the 206th Infantry, Minnesota national guard, were interested spectators from the reviewing stand.

The Brainerd Ladies' Band and the Brainerd-Crosby Ore Diggers were given extensive mention in Twin City newspapers, particularly the St. Paul Pioneer Press-Dispatch, which with the Minnesota Band Masters Association, are sponsors of the music festival.

The Press announced that "men could blow no sweeter notes than the lassies of the Brainerd Ladies' Band" and published on the front page lead-off position a large photograph of the band marching.

Yesterday at 1:45 until 2:15 p. m. the Brainerd Ladies Band played a program of music over KSTP to which practically all Brainerd listened in on.

The Brainerd Ladies' Band, under direction of Winifred Cronk Ziebell, was the only band composed entirely of women in the parade.

The Brainerd women were costumed in scarlet and white uniforms, the most brilliant in the line, the Pioneer Press said, as it quoted Mayor Hodgson as saying that the drum major, Mrs. Dixie Thompson, "strutted high, wide and handsome."

So complete was the costume of Mrs. Thompson that even the Press was deceived. The paper referred to the drum major as a "comely young man in an all scarlet costume and patent leather boots."

Most of Brainerd listened in as Rev. W. C. Sainsbury broadcast a graphic description of the parade, and heard the local bands playing as they marched. The Ore Diggers also played one selection before the massed band concert at Rice Park at the end of the parade. The greatest aggregation of musicians ever gathered at one place in the state of Minnesota, numbering approximately 1,000, then played three selections as one band under one director, the musicians being arranged as to instrumentation. The three selections rendered were: "Stars and Stripes Forever," "Minnesota March" and "Star Spangled Banner."

"Perhaps the most unique band was surprisingly overlooked by the judges," says the Press today. "It is the Brainerd-Crosby Ore Diggers Band, an organization of 40 men. They sprang a complete surprise in the matter of uniforms. Ordinarily they wear red shirts and black miners' caps surmounted by little lamps on parade. When they turned west into Fifth Street from St. Peter Street the judges looked thrice before they identified the oncoming bandmen. The musicians wore long yellow slickers with a hat to match. The uniform captured the crowd's fancy and it gave the Ore Diggers a big hand."

In "Band Festival Flares," side-lights on the bands, the Press includes the following paragraphs concerning the Brainerd bands: "William Knupple, director of the Diggers, who won first in the Christmas pageant here last winter, played solo B-flat cornet with the Fifteenth Infantry Band at Fort Sheridan in 1894."

"A polite crowd are the girls of the Brainerd Ladies' Band. When the Crosby Ore Diggers swept past them on the street Friday playing a march the girls took off their caps and held them high in salute. It turned out that they were saluting their home town boys for ten or twelve Brainerd men play with the Diggers."

"There's a question in the mind of Andy Anderson of the Crosby Ore Diggers as to whether St. Paul policemen appreciate music. Andy led the yellow-slickered musicians into the city hall Friday night waving his shovel baton bent on giving the police force a treat."

"What in heck is all that noise," roared Captain of Detectives Herman Vall, trying to raise his voice above the musical blasts.

"You're arrested," he told Anderson, "for disturbing the peace and quiet of a police station, playing band music in a city hall and keeping the officers away from their pin-ochle game."

"Anderson was placed on probation and released."

Daphne by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER LIII.

RALPH and Crystal . . . that was the only part that seemed real. And that was real enough. Crystal was back in town, back in the studio apartment Daphne knew, for Flora McCordie saw her.

Daphne knew she had lost Ralph. It was for him that she really mourned when she thought she was crying for her father.

"Do you ever think about Allan Winters?" Mr. Greely asked her one day.

She flushed uncomfortably. "No. Why should anyone think of him? Isn't he better forgotten? That is, since you and Ralph let him get away with it."

He was amazed at the bitterness in her voice. His shrewd old eyes bored into hers. "Let him get away with what, Daphne?"

"Why—with—Ralph's money! Oh, I know you liked Allan, Mr. Greely, and as you said that day when you were ill, he had an unfortunate start and perhaps he couldn't help being weak. But people like that do so much harm—oh so terribly much harm . . . it isn't fair . . . I mean he gets off scot free, and you and Ralph have all the worry."

"Ralph hasn't ever been the same since it happened. Oh he looks well enough, and I suppose he's happy, but there's something missing . . . he's changed . . . it does something to you, finding out that someone you've loved and trusted and depended on has failed you."

She turned away, to hide the foolish tears. "Not that it's any of my business," she finished, trying to smile—"but it has changed him!"

"You love him?" the old man questioned gently.

How could she lie to him? What was the use, with his hawk eyes on her, probing into her very soul. "I suppose so," she said dully.

"And you still think he is going to marry your stepsister?"

She nodded. She couldn't talk about it.

"I have seen them together," the old man said, musingly, as if he were talking to himself. "She has beauty . . . of the sort he would inevitably admire . . . hm . . . hah!—they'll make a great pair, a great pair. Superb!"

Daphne got up. "I haven't finished all my work," she managed to say, steadily enough. "I have letters to do."

The old man raised his hand. "Don't go. I have more work for you. A long, difficult job. I want you to do it, Daphne. There are few enough I can trust. I can trust you, absolutely?"

"Of course!"

"Mmm . . . well, you'll see the reason for silence soon enough. It's about Allan."

Her face blanched. "They've found him? Oh, it seems sort of dreadful, doesn't it? Anyone like Allan, being put in jail. You wouldn't want that, would you?"

The old man's eyes never left hers. "That's right," he said after a long pause. "Tolerance, Daphne, a little human pity . . . suits us all. Well, it's not that. He isn't found, but something else—a box of papers. All sorts of things. I don't know what bearing they might have. They might help to find the money, or what became of it . . . a lot of money, Daphne . . . I had thought I might do it, but I'm not up to it any more . . . tired . . . getting old . . . Can I trust you?"

"Of course!"

"Well then—" He led her over to the safe, showed her a large black tin box. "When you have time, my dear, and when you are sure of being uninterrupted. No one must know. A great mess of stuff, old letters, pictures—lots of it trash. But every scrap of paper must be copied exactly, every picture listed. Even the love letters," he twinkled again—"if there are any!"

She drew back at that. "But I

She flushed guiltily. "Not—love letters—exactly." "Hm—go home and tear them up. You never know. Never put down on paper what you don't want the world to hear. Well—I'll be getting along. Here's the key. Be careful!"

Daphne sat in her small, dark paneled office, that opened off of Mr. Greely's larger one, with Allan Winters' black box open on the

couldn't read anyone's personal letters!"

"The court will not have such scruples," he said. "It will be my duty to turn them over if they contain anything pertinent to the case. If not—well—no use blabbing his little secrets all over . . . poor devil . . . I asked you because I thought you would do it kindly, Daphne. In the right way. For my sake, too. I always had a warm spot for Allan—a warm spot."

For a moment he seemed to have forgotten her. His old eyes under the bushy gray eyebrows were strangely soft and dreaming. Then—"You'll do it?" he demanded briskly.

"If you want me to," she said unwillingly.

"I do—and take a lesson from it," he added laughing—the old cynical chuckle—"never leave any letters behind. Do you hear me, Daphne? Never keep any letters, especially love letters. Have you got any, hey?"

"Well, I suppose she is," he grinned, "but tell her I want to see her a minute, will you?"

"I'm sorry, but she said she wasn't to be disturbed for anything today. She and Mr. Greely are doing some special work."

Ralph's mouth shut with a click. "Very well then, you needn't mention that I was in!"

"JUST 42 BUCKETS MORE"

Here are two boys trying to earn tickets to get into the circus. They have already been to the pump forty times—at least they think so—in their efforts to furnish enough water for one mammoth pachyderm. But the old fellow seems to have a stomach as big as the Pacific ocean, according to the enterprising lads. They finally asked the animal keeper how many more buckets the sponge-like sucking, water drinking old elephant might consume.

"About forty-two more buckets," is the sad refrain of the elephant keeper. With dragging step they go back to the well and pump for they must get in to the circus. It is an everyday scene with any circus and an experience all boys have had in "carrying water for the elephants."

The Robbins Bros. circus which comes to this city on Tuesday, June 25, brings to Brainerd the most up-to-date collection of circus acts in the world. Europe has been searching this winter for new feats that startle and thrill the audience. The Human Fly or the ceiling walker is one of them. It comes direct from Europe to the Robbins Bros. circus. It will be produced in Brainerd for the first time and is worth going to see. The circus carries 1,000 people, 300 wild animals and 200 trained horses.

Daphne by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER LIII.

RALPH and Crystal . . . that was the only part that seemed real. And that was real enough. Crystal was back in town, back in the studio apartment Daphne knew, for Flora McCordle saw her.

Daphne knew she had lost Ralph. It was for him that she really mourned when she thought she was crying for her father.

"Do you ever think about Allan Winters?" Mr. Greely asked her one day.

She flushed uncomfortably. "No. Why should anyone think of him? Isn't he better forgotten? That is, since you and Ralph let him get away with it."

He was amazed at the bitterness in her voice. His shrewd old eyes bored into hers. "Let him get away with what, Daphne?"

"Why—with—Ralph's money! Oh, I know you liked Allan, Mr. Greely, and as you said that day when you were all he had an unfortunate start and perhaps he couldn't help being weak. But people like that do so much harm—oh so terribly much harm . . . it isn't fair . . . I mean he gets off scot free, and you and Ralph have all the worry."

"Ralph hasn't ever been the same since it happened. Oh he looks well enough, and I suppose he's happy, but there's something missing . . . he's changed . . . it does something to you, finding out that someone you've loved and trusted and depended on has failed you."

She turned away, to hide the foolish tears. "Not that it's any of my business!" she finished, trying to smile—"but it has changed him!"

"You love him?" the old man questioned gently.

How could she lie to him? What was the use, with his hawk eyes on her, probing into her very soul. "I suppose so," she said dully.

"And you still think he is going to marry your step-sister?"

She nodded. She couldn't talk about it.

"I have seen them together," the old man said, musingly, as if he were talking to himself. "She has beauty . . . of the sort he would inevitably admire . . . hah!—they'll make a great pair, a great pair. Superb!"

Daphne got up. "I haven't finished all my work," she managed to say, steadily enough. "I have letters to do."

The old man raised his hand. "Don't go. I have more work for you. A long, difficult job. I want you to do it, Daphne. There are few enough I can trust. I can trust you, absolutely?"

"Of course!"

"Mmm . . . well, you'll see the reason for silence soon enough. It's about Allan."

Her face blanched. "They've found him? Oh, it seems sort of dreadful, doesn't it? Anyone like Allan, being put in jail. You wouldn't want that, would you?"

The old man's eyes never left hers. "That's right," he said after a long pause. "Tolerance, Daphne, a little human pity . . . suits us all. Well, it's not that. He isn't found, but something else—a box of papers. All sorts of things. I don't know what bearing they might have. They might help us to find the money, or what became of it."

"A lot of money, Daphne. I had thought I might do it, but I'm not up to it any more . . . tired . . . getting old . . . Can I trust you?"

"Of course!"

"Well then—" He led her over to the safe, showed her a large black tin box.

to the safe, showed her a large black tin box. "When you have time, my dear, and when you are sure of being uninterrupted. No one must know. A great mess of stuff, old letters, pictures—lots of it trash. But every scrap of paper must be copied exactly, every picture listed. Even the love letters," he twinkled again—"if there are any!"

She drew back at that. "But I

She flushed guiltily. "Not—love letters—exactly."

"Hm—go home and tear them up. You never know. Never put down on paper what you don't want the world to hear. Well—I'll be getting along. Here's the key. Be careful!"

Daphne sat in her small, dark paneled office, that opened off of Mr. Greely's larger one, with Allan Winters' black box open on the

couldn't read anyone's personal letters!"

"The court will not have such scruples," he said. "It will be my duty to turn them over if they contain anything pertinent to the case. If not—well—no use babbling his little secrets all over . . . poor devil . . . I asked you because I thought you would do it kindly, Daphne. In the right way. For my sake, too. I always had a warm spot for Allan—a warm spot."

For a moment he seemed to have forgotten her. His old eyes under the bushy gray eyebrows were strangely soft and dreaming. Then—"You'll do it?" he demanded briskly.

"If you want me to," she said unwillingly.

do—and take a lesson from it," he added, laughing—the old cynical chuckle—"never leave any letters behind. Do you hear me, Daphne? Never keep any letters, especially love letters. Have you got any, hey?"

"I'm going to do some special work for Mr. Greely," she told Barney, the office boy, "so don't let anyone disturb me, will you?"

"I won't," he promised, and he kept his word. Towards 4 o'clock when Ralph McKevitt drifted in, so immaculate, so beautiful, in his new blue tweeds, that even the stolid Miss Yardley couldn't keep her mind on her work, he was told that Miss Haines was busy.

"Well, I suppose she is," he grinned, "but tell her I want to see her a minute, will you?"

"I'm sorry, but she said she wasn't to be disturbed for anything today. She and Mr. Greely are doing some special work."

"Never mind then. Phone Greely I'm here."

"Greely can't be called either?"

"No sir. I'm sorry, sir—"

Ralph's mouth shut with a click. "Very well then, you needn't mention that I was in!"
